

مقدمة تعبير عن الصديق بالانجليزي قصير

Friendship is considered one of the most important relationships that bring together people. Whoever has a good and honest friend finds in him a treasure from the world's treasures that he lives with for the rest of his life. This relationship brings together two or more people, where one of them supports the other with love and an inner desire to see him happy without waiting for anything in return except to see the smile of this person. the friend.

معنى الصداقة

Friendship is the brotherhood that brings together two people without lineage and by their choice completely, where the friend chooses his friend after they are brought together by the environment, place of study, place of residence, or even social media, to produce interaction between them based on the things they have in common, so he finds a friend with his friend and a partner for his interests, so he transforms with him the normal times To beautiful exceptional times that pass quickly and without either of them feeling it.

اهمية الصديق

Friendship is not limited to sharing interests, hobbies, and entertaining conversations. Rather, its great importance stems from a friend's support for his friend when needed, advising and directing him to what is right for his religious and worldly affairs, and listening to him with interest when he is in pain, because the friend has the right to care, support and consolation, and share his grief. Before weddings, and thus the friend acts as a supporter of the person throughout his life, which in some cases makes him even more important than blood and lineage brothers.

خاتمة تعبير عن الصديق بالانجليزي قصير

Friendship is not measured by time and time, but it is measured by fixed positions that show the character of a friend, his good origin, his generosity, his purity of intention, and his willingness to sacrifice his comfort, his money, his time, and his effort for the sake of his friend. Especially in our time when the faithful are few.